HARMONY PREVAILS AT BOARD MEETING

Taxpayers Make Less than Usual Resistance against Assessment Increases Made by Supervisors and Bickering Conspicuous by Its Absence—Board Appreciates Attitude.

The board of supervisors of Grenada County was in session Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday this week giving almost all of its time to hearing complaints from property owners whose assessments were raised at the August meeting and taking final action on the tax assessor's rolls before they are sent to the State Tax Commission at Jackson for approval. Notwithstanding the fact that the board was given to understand that the Tax Commission was demanding a general increase in all the counties of not less than 10 per cent over the rolls of last year, and which demand had been passed out to the property owners, it is stated that while the increases were perhaps more general than ever before, yet the resistance by property owners was less than before. The board, no doubt, expected a general "howl", but there were but few dissenting who filed formal complaint against the increases over values that had been listed by the tax assessor. It may be that this was due to the fact that the people have become reconciled to the Tax Commission, and that they think it is fruitless to "kick" against the inevitable. It is said that criminals even reconcile themselves to be hanged in some instances. However, it is generally believed in Grenada County that the board of supervisors was doing the very best it could under the circumstances, and certainly it has manifested no other desire than to make a fair and equitable assessment, and it was this most probably that prompted the property owners whose assessments were increased to accept the increases as being fair and just without question. Unquestionably the supervisors had a delicate and rather embarrassing duty. The finest spirit of cooperation was manifested between the different members of the board and a splendid work-together effort was made to do that which is best for the taxpayers and the general citizenship of the county.

It will be borne in mind that the Tax Commission did not make an arbitrary demand for a 10 per cent increase but that it would require a 10 per cent increase of the assessments of the 82 counties to meet the expenditures made by the legislature however, if any county could show that in truth and in fact it had less assessable property than last year, or that its wild lands were really of no value, then the ten per cent increase would not be insisted upon. The tax rolls now go to the Tax Commission and it will doubtless be some time in October before they are returned. The supervisors desire to say through the columns of The Sentinel that they highly appreciate the action upon the part of those tax payers whose property values were increased in accepting the action of the board as its best judgment and as one in the interest of the whole county and as being fair and just. While it is true that a few whose property values were increased appeared before the board, these acted with becoming dignity and manifested no critical attitude toward the board.

WINTON IS IMPROVING

His many friends in Grenada and this section will be pleased to know that D. K. Winton, whose skull was crushed Wednesday, Aug. 29, when he was struck by a piece of metal pulley at his mill at Bruce, in Calhoun County, is regarded as rapidly improving. He has left the Grenada Hospital, going to his home Wednesday morning. Mr. Winton, at the time of the accident, was watching the testing of some new machinery when a pulley broke and part of it was thrown against his skull by the rapidly revolving belt. In giving an account of the accident last week, The Sentinel received information from a supposedly reliable source that a second operation was performed Thursday morning by a Memphis specialist but it has since learned that this report was without foundation of fact. The specialist pronounced the operation by the local surgeon, Dr. J. K. Aven, as being beautifully performed. Mr. Winton's family is with him and he is getting every attention possible. The Sentinel joins with others in the hope that he will soon be completely recovered.

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

City school officials have been busily engaged this week classifying pupils preparatory to the opening next Monday morning, Sept. 10th, of the 1928-29 session. Everything about the buildings and grounds has been made ready for the year's work and all members of the faculty are expected before the end of the week.

Baptist Minister Ably Defends Churchmen Who Oppose Al Smith

Rev. J. W. Lee Backs Protestant Church Leaders Fighting Democratic Nominee—Raps Tammany Hall and Gives His Viewpoint as to Ministers and Politics—Editorial Follows Published Communication.

Tammany Hall, reputed to be the most corrupt political organization in the United States, has been grooming her favorite liquor drinking son at least nine years for the presidency. They deadlocked the Democratic Convention with him many days four years ago. Not being able to accomplish their purpose then they have not ceased from that day until the Houston Convention to have him nominated on the Democratic ticket.

Through political strategy they succeeded. But before Tammany accomplished its purpose the Protestant Christian forces of the United States saw what was being attempted and tried to avert it.

The Methodist conference, the Baptist conventions, and the Presbyterian synods north and south, passed resolutions earnestly asking the leading political parties to declare for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and nominate a man in sympathy with the platform.

No names were called but no one could mistake the fact that they had Al Smith in mind.

The Republican party granted the request of these great Christian bodies and gave us a "dry" man in both principle and practice. The Democratic party not only denied their request but defied the moral and Christian forces of the United States by nominating on the first ballot a dripping wet man and an avowed enemy of prohibition and the eighteenth amendment.

Bishop H. M. Dubose of the Southern Methodist Church says: "The Christian Democrats of the South, in their sacred consciences and in their solemn judgments, must determine what their course and duty in this exigency must be. They have been herded and sold like sheep and swine in the political shambles. But they still have the power of self deliverance. Upward of a million protests, in varying form, warning against the nomi-

Highlanders Enjoy Their Annual Camp

Twenty-eight Members of Younger Boys' Organization Have Big Week at Camp Tallaha Near Charleston—Every Safeguard Taken for Their Protection while on Outing—Boys Deriving Great Benefits from Membership and Are Learning to Play Game Squarely—Those on Camp.

Twenty-eight Highlanders, accompanied by Rev. R. L. McLeod and Messrs. Hurd Horton and Harper Hughes, went to Camp Tallaha, near Charleston, Tuesday of last week to remain until Friday night in camp. This was their annual outing and it was voted the most enjoyable they have ever had.

The daily program of activities at the camp consisted of games, hikes and swimming in daytime and story telling and singing at night. Naturally the boys enjoyed most the swimming which was indulged in four times a day. With the exception of one boy, all of them could swim before they left the camp. Seven of them were unable to swim a stroke when they first arrived in camp. Every precaution was taken for their safety while in the water. They were always under the watchful eyes of the camp managers and the regular life guards stationed there.

The food was of the best and was well cooked and well served. First aid treatment for almost any kind of illness or accident could be had at camp and arrangements had been made at Charleston for immediate services of a physician should one be needed.

To one who loves youth, the sight of these 28 fine young fellows at play was enough to make one voice the thoughts of the poet who said "turn backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight, and make me a boy again, just for tonight." The "old swimmin' hole" was brought to mind but its pleasures could not rival the joys of the Highlanders on their 1928 outing. Their endurance could not be equalled and they were bubbling over with the joy of living.

This group of boys is sponsored by the Grenada Rotary Club. All of them do not hesitate to express their appreciation of what the club is doing for them. Every one of them is being benefitted through their membership in the organization; they learn to play the game squarely and to give as well as take; there is little evidence of selfishness when they are together and all of them are cementing ties of friendship that will last through life.

The prizes offered for the best and next best Highlander spirit manifested on the camp and for the greatest progress in swimming were awarded Tuesday of this week at the Rotary meeting. Pat Mullin received $5.00 for the best Highlander spirit, Hurd Horton, Jr., $2.50 for the next best spirit, and Donald Ross was awarded $2.00 for the swimming prize. Messrs. McLeod and Hughes were the judges. At the next meeting, tonight, an award for the best knowledge of the Highlander manual will be made.

The boys on the camp were Ben Adams, Jr., Byron McCaslin, Henry McCaslin, Lawrence Olson, Jr., Jack Martin, Jr., Elwood Frost, Joe Stevens, Ed McCormick, Lee McCormick, Earl Johnston, Bertwell Johnston, Pat Mullin, Frank Collins Horton, Hurd Horton, Jr., Cowles Horton, Eddie Horton, George Baker, Eddie Thompson, Fred Simmons, James Prose, James Spruill, Charles Pope, Ralph Semmes, Jr., Donald Ross, Harry Rayburn, Ray Chapuis, Henry Ray, Jr., and Bill Ward.

The Progressive Farmer says: "I am reliably informed that he drinks every day, and the number of cocktails and highballs is variously estimated at from four to eight. It is positively denied that he is ever intoxicated, much gossip to the contrary notwithstanding. He is a wet, and he lives up to it."

The editor of the Christian Herald of New York in Al Smith's and Tammany Hall's own city says: "Dr. Barton of Atlanta and Bishop Cannon of Richmond are right. The pro-liquor wing of the party led by Tammany Hall has disregarded all warning and has challenged, indeed defied, the dry Democracy of the South by the nomination for President of Gov. Alfred E. Smith."

"Would the election of Tammany's candidate be the election of the Democratic party? Which Democratic party? Who fought Tilden? Who vilified Cleveland? Who opposed Wilson? Who betrayed Bryan? Have the donkey and the tiger anything in common? Yes! A final fight against each other. It is indeed the irrepressible conflict."

Hon. William A. White of Kansas after searching the legislative record of Gov. Smith says: "While Al Smith was a member (Continued on page 7)

ENDEAVORING TO PREVENT CREOSOTE ENTERING RIVER

The Sentinel feels that the Ayer & Lord Tire Co. should be commended for the efforts it is making to prevent the creosote from its plant at Tallaha, south of Grenada, from polluting the nearby streams and killing the fish. For years the company has done everything possible to conserve the fish but it has been an almost impossible task to prevent at least a part of the creosote that comes from the treated timbers on its yards from flowing into the waters of Bogue, nearby, and entering the Yalobusha River, especially after a heavy rain. The damage to fish has been almost negligible but now the company is making an effort to stop altogether the loss. Officials have ordered that a dam or dirt wall be built around every pile of timber just as soon as it comes from the treating cylinders, hoping thereby to enclose all creosote that comes from the timbers and forcing it to seep into the ground. If this should be successful, those who have charged that fish have been killed by chemicals from the plant will have no basis whatever to make a complaint.

The company's immense payroll and the large sums of money that it annually expends more than offset any loss, however great, occasioned by the killing or injuring of fish and those who have been wont to criticize or condemn Ayer & Lord officials should bear these facts in mind.

P. T. A. MEETS SEPT. 13

On next Thursday afternoon, Sept. 13th, the Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first regular meeting of the year in the high school basement. After the business session has been concluded a social hour will be had so that the patrons and friends of the school may have the opportunity of meeting the teachers.

Everyone who is interested in the school is invited to attend this meeting.

Boys Awarded Prizes At Tuesday Meeting

Results of Competition of Annual Camp of Highlanders at Tallaha Announced at Rotary Club Tuesday—Pat Mullin Gets First Prize and Hurd Horton, Jr., Second Prize for Spirit Manifested on Camp—Donald Ross Wins Award for Proficiency in Swimming.

The feature of the meeting of the Grenada Rotary Club Tuesday, Sept. 4, was the awarding of prizes to three boys, members of the Highlanders, the younger boys' organization which is aided and sponsored by the Rotary Club. The first prize for the best Highlander spirit shown on the camp of the boys at Tallaha last week was given to Pat Mullin. The prize was a $5.00 gold piece, donated by Rotarian B. C. Adams. Second prize for the next best Highlander spirit shown on the camp, a $2.50 gold piece, donated by Rotarian F. T. Gerard, went to Hurd Horton, Jr. Donald Ross was awarded $2.00, donated also by Rotarian Gerard, for making the most marked progress in swimming. Each of these young fellows, in a most manly manner, expressed his appreciation of the award and of the interest the Rotary Club is manifesting in the Highlanders and who is doing so much in making it worth while to the boys, told of the activities of the camp at Tallaha and of the many precautions taken for the care of the boys.

Preceding the awarding of prizes, Hurd Horton, Sr., who has charge of the Highlanders and who is doing so much in making it worth while to the boys, told of the activities of the camp at Tallaha and of the many precautions taken for the care of the boys.

L. J. Doak, chairman of the vocational service committee, made a brief talk outlining to the club what his committee hopes to accomplish and telling of the plans of Rotary International as to the work of this committee. It is the purpose for the committee to give one program a month for six months starting in October. Mr. Doak attended the recent district executives' conference in Greenwood and he mentioned several things on the program there that served to give inspiration.

Coach "Happy" Hathorn, of Grenada High School, expressed to the club the appreciation of the school athletic events and asked for a continuance of their support during the session to open next week. Mr. J. C. Cavett, of Jackson, and Mr. Harper Hughes, of Grenada, were guests also at the luncheon. Just before adjournment Rotarian C. K. Bailey brought up before the club a scandalous rumor that is being circulated about one of its officials about which this paper is unable to say anything since it has none of the proof in hand and it does not wish to invite a libel suit. Suffice to say the meeting was adjourned before any action could be taken, therefore there must be some modicum of truth in the rumor.

DEMOCRATS CALL COUNTYWIDE MEET

Plan to Organize "Smith-Robinson Club" at Meeting at Courthouse Saturday, Sept. 15—Call Says Future Welfare of South Requires Loyalty to Democratic Party.

We, the undersigned, having an abiding faith in the principles of government as promulgated by the Democratic party—the party of our fathers—and believing that the future welfare of the South, politically and economically, requires the white men and white women of our state to remain loyal and steadfast to the party and its nominees; therefore, we hereby call upon white Democrats of Grenada County to meet with us in the court house, at 11 o'clock a. m., on Saturday, the 15th day of this month, for the purpose of organizing a "Smith-Robinson Club", and to take other steps that may be deemed expedient and to the welfare of the party.

Vote for Legislative Candidates Shows Printing Plant Not Endorsed

Secretary of State Walker Wood Analyzes Vote over State in 1927 to Prove Bilbo's Proposition Not Approved—Gives Careful Review of Vote upon Which He Bases His Conclusion—Argument Is Sound.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 2.—Walker Wood, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Mississippi Press Association, discussing the question of a state printing plant coming up at the extraordinary session, which will convene on October 1st, said:

"I expect Governor Bilbo will submit this question to the legislature, but I do not believe that body will pass this legislation, and place on the taxpayers over a half million dollars expense to experiment with in the printing game. 'I have been in a number of the counties of the state during the past few weeks, and I found that the people, generally speaking, are not interested in a state printing plant. Some farmers expressed themselves in this way: 'We do not know anything about a state printing plant and do not care anything about it. If you fellows down at Jackson can't agree on a state printing plant, why don't you take up something else, and go ahead. We are interested in a good roads program.'"

"I see from the papers that Governor Bilbo uses the recent Senatorial race of the 24th Senatorial District, composed of Webster and Clay counties as a 'test of the exact sentiment of the people' on the establishment of a state printing plant. Let's see what the records show:

"Senator Scott was elected in 1927. He is a Bilbo man, and favors the state printing plant. Murphree carried the 24th District over Bilbo, but lost Webster by a small majority, the home county of both Messrs. Latham and Cook, the recent contestants for Scott's seat. If a majority of a man's constituents is to be instructions for him to cast his vote on this question Scott should have voted against a state printing plant."

"In the Latham-Cook contest a very light vote was polled and different conditions prevailed from those in 1927. If as full vote had been polled as was in 1927, the District possibly would have voted strongly in favor of Cook."

"Who can tell? 'There you are. Who is able to tell just what the real wish of the voters of Clay and Webster counties is on the matter of a state printing plant?'"

"In 1927, a majority of the voters of the state voted against Governor Bilbo in the first primary. In the second primary, a majority voted for him."

"Did the majority he received in the second primary go to him because he advocated a state printing plant?'"

"If this is true, why did they not vote for him in the first primary? 'My opinion is the state printing plant was not a factor in Governor Bilbo's receiving a majority of the votes of the second primary. He simply received a majority of the Conner and Anderson vote, and that brought him victory. Be it remembered that both Conner and Anderson were opposed to the state printing plant."

"The facts are that a large number of voters of Mississippi never gave his state printing plant serious consideration. They knew it as a 'plank to get in on,' and many looked upon it as a joke, and believed this socialistic scheme would never be saddled on the taxpayers or given serious consideration."

"However, the Governor's seriousness was much deeper rooted than was believed by many, and now he is trying to 'move Heaven and hell' to put it across."

"Did the majority of voters vote for Bilbo because he advocated a state printing plant, or did they not?'"

"Now, let's go back to the counties in the election of 1927. If the counties and floratorial districts that went against Gov. Bilbo is a mandate or instruction to their respective representatives as to how they should vote on the state printing plant, then, the lower house (Continued on page 6)

FORMER OXBERRY RESIDENT DIED TUESDAY, AUGUST 28

Mrs. J. W. Harris died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lee Madden, near Indianola, August 28, after an illness of some days of blood poisoning. Her remains were buried the next day in the Jones Bayou burying ground. Mrs. Harris was before her marriage, Malinda Smith, being a daughter of Mrs. Melvina Smith. She was born December 10th, 1854, and married to the husband who survives her, August 20, 1881.

For many years she had been a member of the Baptist church and followed the teachings as interpreted by that faith as best she could. She was a kindly natured woman and meant to be generous and obliging in all things. Most of her life was spent in and near the Oxberry community. Only a few years ago did she and her family remove to the delta. Besides her husband, Mrs. Harris is survived by three daughters, all of whom are married; two brothers, Meredith Smith, of Oxberry, and Thomas E. Smith, of near Indianola, one sister, Mrs. Julia Jackson, and twenty-two grandchildren. To the bereft The Sentinel tender sympathy.

AN ELDERLY LADY DIED

Mrs. Laura Houston, age 70, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Thomason, in Grenada at 12 o'clock Wednesday night, September 5. The funeral services were held at the residence Thursday afternoon after which her remains were carried to her old home near Charleston and there laid to rest in the family burying ground. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. L. McLeod, of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lawhorn, of Water Valley.

Mrs. Houston had been making her home with her daughter in Grenada only a short while. Those who knew this good woman knew her as one of fine character and with those noble, Christian virtues that endure beyond the grave. Besides her daughter in Grenada, she leaves another daughter, Mrs. Lillian Cox, of Charleston, and three sons, Morris, Noble and Nolan Houston to mourn her death. To the bereft condolence is tendered.

JUDGE McLEAN NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

The news comes to Grenada that Judge Wm. C. McLean is lying at the point of death at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis and that his physician states that the end is only a matter of hours. The Judge was critically ill at his Florida home the latter part of the winter at which time his trouble was diagnosed as a weakness of the heart. He came home some two months ago and about six weeks ago went to Memphis to consult a specialist when it was found that his bladder was seriously involved. He seemed to respond to treatment, but was unable to undergo an operation which possibly would have relieved him.

13-YEAR OLD GIRL DIES IN ACCIDENT

Lumber Truck and Wagon Collide East of Bogue Monday Night Killing Little Girl Instantly and Critically Injuring Stepfather—Truck Driver Released under Bond.

Davis Massey, 13-year old girl, was instantly killed and her stepfather, E. A. Dooley, was critically injured at 8 o'clock Monday night when the wagon in which they were riding was struck by a lumber truck driven by V. M. Underwood, young man about 20 years of age. Underwood sustained severe bruises but was not seriously injured. The accident occurred about 200 yards east of Batupan Bogue Creek bridge just beyond the eastern corporate limits of Grenada.

Mr. Dooley, who has earned a bare livelihood hauling wood, was returning home for the night, accompanied by his little stepdaughter who had joined him for the last trip of the day. The truck also was headed toward town and it struck the wagon just as Mr. Dooley turned into the main highway from a side road just at a small wooden bridge. The truck struck with such force that its trailer was slung over and to the side of the truck, completely reversing itself so that the rear end of the trailer was ahead of the radiator. Spreading gasoline from the damaged tank became ignited and the truck was almost wholly destroyed by fire. Part of the bridge was also burned.

Underwood was immediately arrested by Sheriff F. S. Nason and released under a $500 bond. He was arraigned before Esquire W. P. Hamsley Tuesday afternoon but his case was continued until Sept. 18 because of Mr. Dooley's confinement in the hospital and his consequent inability to appear as a witness. Mr. Dooley is still in a precarious condition. He is suffering from brain concussion and other injuries.

The remains of the little girl were taken to Kosciusko Tuesday for burial. She was a bright, sweet child and was especially ambitious for a good education. She was proficient in her studies and had been looking forward to the opening of the present school year. The Sentinel joins in extending sympathy to the distressed family.

ASSOCIATION SELLS COTTON IN POOL LOTS

That much time and thought has been given the pooling service now enjoyed by members of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Cotton Association is easily understood. By the plan which has so successfully used, a member may sell his cotton at any time he chooses just as though it remained in his own barn, at his neighbor's gin, or in the warehouse of his nearest compressor; but to far better advantage than if selling alone.

The pooling service that the association offers its members is simply a matter of the member stating when he wants to sell. Daily pools, semi-monthly pools and seasonal pools are provided by the association, and a member may put his cotton in any of these, and the entire lot is sold at the best market price. Selling his cotton other than through the association the farmer does not have the advantage of even running grade lots and the knowledge of markets that enables the association to obtain the best prices for all grades.

This pooling service as perfected by the Mississippi Farm Bureau Cotton Association is being copied by other associations as the "member's option" feature is considered most advantageous to the farmer.

member Harrison, which of course would mean the national administration, also saw how, through gratitude for his promotion to governor. This of course would carry with it the support of the state administration.

This was in part predicated on the support that Bilbo gave Fly for congress, and had Fly been elected to Congress, of course Governor Bilbo would then have had the support of "Congressman" Fly.

Thus the strange support of Fly by Bilbo is explained by political wise men here.

The "Fly cog" having slipped, there is just one fly in the rose scented ointment. If Smith does not make a touch down, then the game would be called off, because of a shower of rain—or maybe tears.

Even if the truthfulness of this story is denied, we release it because it opens the way for a very interesting play.

One unrelated factor in this game of "you tickle me, and I'll tickle you" would be to put State Senator Homer Castled of Madison County, president pro tem of the Senate, in line for service as governor, should Governor Adam at any time take a spin up to Memphis or a run down to New Orleans for Mardi Gras or any other relaxing occasion.

Let it be known that Senator Castled was not mentioned as one of the players, but just to show where he will be if all this we see,

IF GOV. BILBO WOULD TAKE OUR ADVICE.

No doubt Gov. Bilbo is amply supplied with advisers. All governors are surfeited with advisers. But the fact is that it happens in most cases that people tell governors what they think they want to hear and not what they think they really ought to know.

An unusual opportunity awaits the coming legislative session, provided all questions are approached from a patriotic standpoint.

If we were permitted to advise Gov. Bilbo we would most assuredly tell him to let up on his school book plant proposition. He tried that from every angle at the regular session last winter and failed.

Speaking for ourselves, we are unalterably opposed to the school book plant. We are opposed to it not because Gov. Bilbo advocates it but for the reason that it is unsound economically, because it is wrong in principle; because we think that the government should not take the taxpayers' money and engage in those enterprises that are carried on by private citizens; we are opposed to it because it would be the biggest political hatchery that Mississippi ever knew; because it would open up innumerable opportunities for pilfer and graft and lastly because we believe that the cost of operating would far exceed the mere bagatelle saved in prices—we seriously question that the same kind of books could or would be sold any cheaper even if printed at public expense.

As proof that it would prove to be a veritable political hatchery, we cite one of the only two states in 48 that has a book plant, California. The state printer went first into the office of state treasurer then he climbed into the Governor's office—he had a machine behind him.

If Gov. Bilbo will cease to hammer on books and a printing plant, he and the lawmaking body may do something worth while in the way of permanent road building and working out a system of state financing that will place in the discard the patch work of revenue getting that is now on our statute books.

If we could get the Governor to take our advice, we would tell him and others that there will have to be some changes or modifications in the Whittington road bill considered by the legislature last winter before it is enacted.

In brief those modifications are, in our judgment, these:

(1) Provide for bond issue of $30,000,000 instead of sixty millions, and these bonds to be issued in installments so as to meet the federal appropriations for roads on a 50-50 basis;

(2) Make the highway commissioners elective by the people and do not clothe the chairman with Kaiser-like powers as the original bill provides;

(3) Make provision for the counties to retain 15 or 20 per cent of the gasoline tax so that lateral or neighborhood roads may be taken care of;

(4) Make provision for the taking over by the state of the county road and bridge bonds already issued;

(5) Make sure that no money is used to build anything except concrete or other permanent through highways.

The public mind of Mississippi is ready for a highway law that will mean the building of permanent highways, but at the same time they do not want a road law that can by any possibility be used as a political club or which can be converted even into a semi-political machine.

Mississippi is ready to substitute concrete or other permanent road building material for her primal and secondary highways. The state is realizing the cost of the wear and tear of graveled roads on her automobiles and especially on tires, and that steps should be taken to take care of this waste.

The state of North Carolina has one of the best systems of highways and is one of the best financed state governments in the Union. That state claims that there is a saving of three and three-tenths cents per mile on cars in concrete highways over gravel. Let us suppose then that Mississippi has 350,000 automobiles, and that each car, on an average, will be run 6,000 miles per year; then if North Carolina's figures are correct, Mississippi would save $69,300,000. per year if she can substitute concrete roads for graveled.

The time is ripe for constructive work. Let the Governor and the legislature rise to the occasion. And it might be well right now to observe that all the conceding must not be on one side. If the Governor gets a road bill on the lines we suggest, why he will have every right to feel that he has met fully one of his campaign pledges.

DID COMMERCIAL APPEAL NOT OVERDO IT?

We are thinking that the Commercial Appeal rather overdid it in the news story, followed the next day with an editorial, about the death of Diggs Nolen. In view of his many experiences with officers and of the crimes for which he was convicted, it occurs to us that it is calculated to make a rather false impression on the mind of the youth when one who was so many times in the toils of the law receives so much attention from a great newspaper when he is called to his last court. We are always disposed to throw the mantle of charity over the life of the departed, nevertheless we deem it unwise to lavish too many words on one so frequently in the meshes of the law.

THE SWEETER THINGS OF LIFE.

There are times when events go far awry, according to our judgment, and when we think the world is out of tune, then comes along some good and trusted friend and words that come from the very inner soul are exchanged, and we learn once again that problems and shadows are athwart every pathway, and that we are much in the thoughts of others. Then it is that we look upward and see the sparkle of heavenly dew drops, the radiant beams of a rising sun, the bee around the flowers, the humming bird amid a bower of roses and we listen, and lo,

HON. JO A. PARKER
ENDORSES SARGON

Former Nat'l Committeeman
Convinced It Is Most Wonderful Medicine in World.

Almost everybody in Missouri knows Jo A. Parker, who has been an outstanding figure in the public life of that state for twenty years. Mr. Parker was chairman of the national committee of the People's party when William Jennings Bryan was the party's candidate for president. He is also prominent in fraternal circles, having been commander of the Knights of Pythias and delegate to the grand lodge of the State of Missouri. He is also active in the Masonic order.

He was born in Cambridge City, Indiana, but spent his boyhood in Kentucky before moving to Missouri. His father was a minister in the Christian church and wrote many books on religious subjects. Mr. Parker has extensive farming and timber interests in southeastern Missouri. His home is at Parma, Missouri.

Out of sheer gratitude for his complete restoration to health, and feeling it a duty to let his fellowman know all the details of his recovery, he made the following voluntary statement:

"I have never before recommended a medicine in my life, and I would not publicly recommend Sargon now if I did not know that it is the most wonderful medicine in the world for the troubles from which I suffered. I do not know what is in it or how it is made, but I do know it is a new kind of medicine and different from any other medicine I have ever used or heard of."

"I have been in a general rundown condition for the past three years. I suffered from biliousness, severe dizzy spells and could not sleep properly at night. My appetite was poor, constipation was more or less chronic and I had to use purgatives practically all the time. I was weak and lost all my old-time strength and energy. I had become very discouraged over my condition."

"I began taking Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills about two months ago. I now feel much better than I have at any time in four years. Sargon is the most efficient medicine I have ever had any experience with. It seemed to pick me right up. My bilious attacks have entirely disappeared. My appetite has returned and I feel stronger and more cheerful and optimistic than I have for years."

"I especially like the action of the pills. They are fine and positively do not upset me in the least. I am sure now that my trouble was due to a sluggish liver and lack of bile flow. Sargon and the pills have without a doubt corrected this condition."

"I expect to always keep some Sargon and pills on hand in case I ever get bilious again, or rundown and discouraged like I was. I was sick so long that it seems wonderful that any medicine could correct my condition in two months' time."

Sargon may be obtained in Grenada from Corner Drug Store.

there is the cooing of a dove and an encouraging voice, though inaudible, nevertheless real, out of the unknown, yet known, somewhere, and we realize anew the ties of friendship and the very supreme love of our own dear ones. Then we find ourselves again and feel that we are ready for that genuine and abiding work that helps to make men better and that makes us know that God is our Creator and that this beautiful world was made for His glory and that we are to enjoy it in that fullness that always comes of duty sacredly done.

The sweeter things of life far outnumber the bitter—and the bitter are largely of our own making.

TWENTY LAY METHODISTS SPEAK OUT.

Twenty of the most prominent lay members of the Methodist churches of Memphis met together the other day and placed themselves on record as protesting against the action of five of the bishops of the Methodist church in taking public action that arrays them on one side in the presidential campaign, and also against the action of those pastors who are using their pulpits to make known their preferences in the present presidential campaign. The resolutions were written in a brotherly spirit and had every appearance of being prompted by sincere motives. The laymen were right and The Sentinel makes this statement without any regard to which side these men, called to preach the word of God, might take.

The pastors and bishops who do not take warning may be starting something that will force another John Wesley to assert himself.

MR. SHERIFF, MR. CONSTABLE AND MR. MARSHAL—WHY NOT?

The deplorable accident which occurred Monday night near Grenada that resulted in the death of a little 13-year old girl brings forcibly to the public mind the question of reckless truck driving, a matter that seems to be giving much concern to almost every community. This statement is made without any reference to who is responsible for the fatal accident already mentioned. Certainly this paper would say nothing that would serve to prejudice the mind of the public against the young man driving the truck or that would place him in a false light. But what we are trying to get over is the necessity of every truck having both front lights and rear lights.

Below is printed Section 9 of Senate Bill 67 of the laws of 1916 in reference to motor vehicles. Let Sentinel readers acquaint themselves with the law. It will be seen that the sheriff, constable, marshal or any other arresting officer is expected to do his duty towards seeing that lights are placed on trucks and that trucks shall observe traffic regulations:

Sec. 9. Every motor vehicle shall carry, during the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, at least two lighted lamps, showing white lights, visible at least two hundred feet in the direction towards which such motor vehicle is proceeding and shall also exhibit one red light visible in the reverse direction. Said red light shall be so hung upon the motor vehicle so that it will illuminate and make visible the register number of said vehicle; provided, however, that the user of such motor vehicle may proceed to his destination in event of a bona fide failure of his lights to operate, if he sounds his bell, horn, or other signal device at least once in every two hundred feet, does not proceed at a rate of speed greater than six miles an hour, and takes the first reasonable opportunity to put his lights in order, otherwise such operator to be deemed guilty of a violation of the foregoing provision. Every motor vehicle while in use on the public highway or any street, avenue or alley, shall be provided with at least two good and efficient brakes, and also with a suitable horn, bell, or other signal device, for giving notice of its approach. Every motor vehicle using gasoline, gas, oil, naphtha, or other similar source of energy, shall use the "muffler" so called, and the same shall not be cut out or disconnected within the limits of any city, town or village within this state.

Lesson for September 9

PAUL IN ATHENS AND CORINTH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:16-31:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells of Jesus in Two Great Cities.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Tells of Jesus in Two Great Cities.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul As a Worker.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Preacher and Teacher.

I. Paul Disputing With the Athenians (vv. 16-21).

1. The occasion (v. 16).
While waiting for Timothy and Silas, Paul saw the city of Athens wholly given to idolatry. This stirred his spirit. It is the consciousness of the world's lost condition that impels disciples to witness of Christ's saving power.

2. The place (vv. 17-21).
(1) In the synagogue (v. 17). True to his custom Paul went into the Jewish synagogue and entered into earnest argument with the Jews and the devout persons there.

(2) In the market place (vv. 17-21).

From the Jews he turned to such as were found in the market place. Here he came into touch with the Epicurean and Stoic philosophers. The former were atheistic materialists, denying the doctrine of creation and giving themselves up to sensuous indulgence, rejecting the idea of a future judgment. The latter were pantheists. When they heard the preaching of Paul they invited him to the Areopagus to speak to them of this new doctrine.

II. Paul's Address on Mars' Hill (vv. 22-34).

1. The introduction (vv. 22-23).
He introduces his discourse in a courteous and conciliatory manner, saying that as he was viewing their city he beheld an altar with an inscription "to the unknown God." This was his point of contact, which he at once connected with the idea of the living God.

2. The body of his discourse (vv. 24-31).

(1) A declaration concerning God (vv. 24, 25).

a. The material universe was created by Him (v. 24).
b. His spirituality and immensity (v. 24). Being essentially spiritual He demands heart worship, and being transcendent He is not confined to earthly temples.

c. His active providence (v. 25). He gives being, bestows native gifts, and as Sovereign directs all things.

(2) A declaration concerning man (vv. 26-31).

a. He is the offspring of God (v. 29).

Since men are His offspring and bear His likeness, it is utter folly to make images of Him.
b. Nations have their place by God's purpose (v. 26).

c. Men should seek God (v. 27).

d. The present obligation to repent (vv. 30, 31).

3. The results of Paul's address (vv. 32, 34).

(1) Some mocked (v. 32).

The preacher who declares a judgment to come is likely to be mocked.

(2) Some procrastinated (v. 32).

Many today do not mock, but procrastinate.

(3) Some believed (v. 34).

Wherever the gospel is preached there are some who believe and are saved.

III. Paul in Corinth (Acts 18:1-11).

Paul came to Corinth a stranger. His method of gaining a foothold is worthy of note. His first task was to find a home (v. 2), his second was to earn his daily bread (v. 3).

1. Preaching in the synagogue at Corinth (vv. 4-8).

(1) Time of (v. 4). Every Sabbath day.

(2) Encouragement by the coming of Silas and Timothy (v. 5).

(3) Opposition to Paul (v. 6).

As he increased his activity, opposition also increased.

(4) The purpose to turn to the Gentiles (v. 6).

Because of their blasphemy and opposition he ceased work among the Jews.

(5) He did not go far away (v. 7).

He remained sufficiently near so that those whose hearts God had touched could easily find him.

(6) His success (v. 8).

Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, was converted and Paul departed from his usual custom and baptized him (1 Cor. 1:14). Many others also believed.

8. Paul's vision (vv. 9-11).

His experiences since coming to Europe were very trying, therefore he needed encouragement. It is just like the Lord to come when His servant has the greatest need.

Note the Lord's words:

(1) "Be not afraid."

(2) "Speak and hold not thy peace."

(3) "I am with thee."

(4) "No man shall set on thee to hurt thee."

(5) "I have much people in this city."

Column About Colored People of Grenada County Items by J. H. Phillips

Rev. J. S. Bostic Dead

Rev. James S. Bostic departed this life after an illness of several weeks' duration. His decline in health began early in the spring of this year. He combated the advance of his troubles heroically at the onset, but as it took stronger hold upon his vitality he began to show that he was losing in the struggle which won out last Thursday about midnight.

His physician used every available means to assist him to the rallying point but failed. His time was out. We think it could not have been prolonged. Nature, with her agencies to put an end to life had decreed it. We do not know when or where or how she begins nor how far she has advanced in her plans that make her victorious but she works on reducing our powers of resistance until we give under—then the end.

Rev. Bostic had been a citizen of Grenada about 44 years, coming here from Hinds county. He was born in the year 1869. When he came to Grenada he was quite a lad. His father, Rev. J. S. Bostic, was a Methodist minister. After his death his mother brought the children to this city. He joined Belle Flower Baptist church when quite young, entered the ministry in 1894 and continued it as his life work.

He pastored some of the leading churches of this section and was regarded by all who knew him as a strong preacher and a splendid pastor. At his death, he was pastor of St. James Baptist church of Charleston, Springdale and Black Jack.

He was moderator of the Grenada association for four years, and at its last session, though sick, was reelected. His life as a citizen of Grenada leaves its impress for he was a factor for good in the community in its social and religious uplift. He will be missed for his good deeds and work among our group. He leaves to mourn his departure a loving wife, a son, Jimmie, of Chicago, a brother, R. S. Bostic, of this city, a sister, Mrs. Lizzie Adams, of Memphis.

The funeral services were in charge of Rev. A. Nabors and Rev. M. W. Weathers.

The K. P. and W. O. W. conducted the last rites at the Masonic cemetery on Tuesday afternoon at 4:30.

There were several hundred persons who were present at the funeral, coming from every corner of this and adjoining counties. The church was uncomfortably packed from the rostrum to the door, standing space being at a premium and with that as a fact, there were more people outside who could not enter than were in the church. Flowers in profusion came from many friends.

A large procession of cars accompanied the remains from the home to the church and from the church to the cemetery.

Miss Mattie Smith and Mrs. Annie Mae Parks, nieces of Rev. J. S. Bostic, came down from Memphis to be present at the funeral of their uncle.

The account of the funeral of Mrs. Kissy Dunaway by mistake did not appear in this column immediately following the last service over the deceased.

The service was conducted at Vincent M. E. Church at 3 p. m. on arrival of her remains from Mounds, Ill. where they had been prepared for burial. Rev. B. M. Moss preached the funeral to a large audience of relatives and friends. He was at one time a pupil of Mrs. Dunaway and was well acquainted with her sterling character and was thus able to contribute much to her worth as a Christian character. He deserves credit for his manner of funeralizing Mrs. Dunaway's two sons, Fred and Whit, of Chicago, brought the body home following the disaster. Both of these young men with their wives followed their mother to her last resting place out to the McSwine cemetery, 8 miles north of Grenada.

The kindly interest manifested by the community in the late illness and death of Rev. J. S. Bostic is noteworthy. Friends came to his assistance in many ways. Some of the ministers of his denomination volunteered and cared for his churches and fed his flock spiritually to the last. His friends about town had thought of him in a substantial way and then to cap the climax in the last hour of trial his friends, white and colored, gave the family and friends the use of their cars for the funeral. Grenada is the best town in the state when it comes to dispensing charity and kindness in the hour of trial.

Mrs. Ella Clark went to Chicago last week to carry her grandson, Horace, Jr., back home. He had spent several weeks here and as he was too young to return alone she accompanied him.

Mr. H. J. Hudson's daughter, Marie, came down from Chicago to visit him last week. The visit was short but nevertheless pleasant and enjoyable.

Mrs. Edna (Golden) Cunningham returned to Chicago last week after a visit to see her mother, Mrs. Carrie Golden.

Mr. H. A. Rounsaville, of Washington, D. C., came to our city this week. He was reared in Grenada county but for 23 years has made Washington his home. We remember the years ago when he was one of the popular teachers of this county. He still owns a farm in the eastern part of this county to which he makes occasional visits. He is a clerk in the Registry Dept.

in Washington. This being his vacation period he knew of nothing better than to come to his old home and become reacquainted with old friends and surroundings. He thinks the old town and county are making strides forward. He is a regular subscriber of The Sentinel and read of these advancements but he says to see them is better than reading about them. Mr. Rounsaville is much improved in health and appearance. So many of the old timers are gone that it was hard to reconcile himself to present conditions. However he is proud to be back again. He is making good of his present environments at the capital.

Mrs. Annie (Booker) Dobbs, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been here to visit her father-in-law, Mr. Wesley Dobbs, of this community, has returned home after several weeks' stay here visiting the home of her birth. Three lovely and interesting children accompanied her on this visit. Mr. Dobbs is delighted to have these grandchildren around him. Mrs. Dobbs always enjoys herself when she comes home. She is so concerned about the old home that she thinks she can stay in closer touch with the old surroundings by having The Grenada Sentinel make a weekly visit. She had The Sentinel added to her weekly mail before she left the city. We think it proper to say that if you have any interest in your old town you should have the paper sent to you wherever you go. It is better than any letter from a friend to keep you posted as to what is going on.

Mr. Harry Ratcliff, of Memphis, returned home last Saturday to prepare for his entry in school which begins next week. He finished the grammar grade last term and enters this year as a prep. He is a smart promising young man and if he continues as he has started, the world will know that his life was purposeful. He comes from first class stock and has the stuff in him to make good. His friends here are hopeful that he will succeed.

Prof. A. M. Rodgers, principal colored city school, has announced grade registration for this week, preparatory to opening the school next Monday, Sept. 10th. The parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present in order to get first hand information of the plans for conducting the school. You should attend this opening of the school so that you will be able to enter into cooperation with him in his efforts to help you with your children. Come at 10 a. m. Monday.

T. P. LAMKIN SEES 89TH BIRTHDAY

It is good for the world that some men are spared to a ripe old age and that the younger part of humanity may have the benefit of their counsel and learn from the example they set. One of these comes to mind just now in the life of Mr. T. P. Lamkin, of Grenada, who on August 31st, celebrated his 89th birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. L. Wilkins, in Grenada. Prompted by that love, that the good daughter has for her father, this daughter, assisted by her own four lovely daughters, made thoughtful preparation to let her father know that she joyed in the fact that he had been spared to that hour. Suitable edibles to adorn the table were in evidence and eighty-nine burning candles on the birthday cake lighted the dining room. The candles were double reminders, one to show what a light the life may bring to the world and the other to show that, regardless of how bright, a light will burn down after a while and that it must serve its purpose while burning.

Mr. Lamkin was born about five miles west of Grenada at what was then called Troy, a steamboat town on the north bank of the Yalobusha river almost south of the home now occupied by Roland W. Jones and family. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Griffin Lamkin, his mother's maiden name being Peete, a sister of Mr. Cas. C. Peete, once a prominent citizen of district five and whose home was within a short distance of what is now Parsons. He had only one brother, George Lamkin, who passed away some years ago.

Mr. Lamkin had only such school advantages as that day afforded. Early in life he evinced a working spirit; he showed that his talents ran in a business way. His earlier plans were thwarted by the Civil War, in which he took part, having enlisted in the brigade commanded by Col. W. H. Fitzgerald, then of Charleston, who in later years became a prominent attorney of Grenada.

After the Civil War, Mr. Lamkin spent the first year farming on Tallahatchie river just above what is now known as Phillip. He then came out to the "Valley" and later engaged in the mercantile business about one mile south of what was then Chocoma ferry, on the J. M. Duncan farm. Later he was also a partner in a mercantile business on the Valley road south of Ascalene creek, the firm being Lamkin & Thompson. The junior member of the firm was Graham Thompson, a very fine young man who fell a victim to yellow fever in the memorable epidemic of 1878. In the seventies, Mr. Lamkin was married to Miss Helen Duncan, beautiful of person and one even more beautiful in character. To this union, three children were born, two daughters, Helene, now Mrs. Beatty, and Eloise, Mrs. Wilkins, and a son who died when quite a child.

Thus is epitomized the life of this stalwart man, one of the highest integrity and a man who has ever stood for the right as he understood the right to be. His family had every right to joy in his birthday and to recount with him as far as they could some of the things of the past which touch the very secret recesses of a man's life and that show that he is made in the image of God.

The Sentinel congratulates Mr. Lamkin on his birthday. It congratulates him on what he has wrought in life and joins with his loved ones and other friends in wishing him the opportunity to celebrate still many more birthdays.

JAMES F. SMITH HAS 82ND BIRTHDAY, AUG. 31

The home of Mr. James F. Smith, three miles east of Torrance but in Grenada County, was gladened August 31, by the gathering of his children to celebrate his 82nd birthday. Something more than a dozen years ago, Mr. Smith's wife was called to the beyond and notwithstanding the fact that all of his children have expressed a desire to have him make his home with them, he chose to cling to the old home where so many things served to remind him of the babyhood of his children and of the succeeding years when they were developing into maturity and of his good wife and a thousand other things that crowd themselves on the memory of those whose fondest thoughts linger around the fireside and those sacred relations that cannot be fully understood this side of Jordan's stormy banks.

Mr. Smith is a representative of that type of citizenship that believes that nothing can supplant the home and the influence of father and mother on childhood. And he has lived to see the happy fruition of his dreams and hopes in the lives of all his children, all of whom are trustworthy citizens and are making for themselves good names. Hence the hour was more than a happy one when these children gathered under the old vine and fig tree to joy with their father and protector in years gone by to celebrate the passage of the 82nd mile post in life. Four score and two years is a long while. Many new things have come upon the stage of life during that time. Sweet and imperishable memories undoubtedly crowded themselves on the minds of not only the honored father but all those gathered for the occasion.

After several hours of delightful conversation the entire party was led to the dining room where all the most delicate and delightful things known to culinary arts had been prepared and were spread upon a table that had been most beautifully and fittingly adorned. The glow from 82 candles carried a message not only of love but of that light which is the source of all light and which never burns down or "goes out." The day served as more than one of just temporary pleasure but it taught a lesson which evidently went home to the hearts of all present, who delighted to honor the man who had chosen the simple life away from the maddening throng, but whose life had been most beautiful and fittingly adorned.

Those present were: Mrs. O. P. Farrell of Coffeeville, Dr. C. W. Smith and wife of Glendora, B. F. Smith, wife and child, of Money, V. R. Smith and son of Frenchman's Bayou, Ark., E. E. Smith, wife and child of Glendora, C. A. Smith of Brinkley, Ark., T. B. Smith, of Cruzar, R. E. Perry and wife and two children, of Grenada, and John Gillon, a near neighbor. The Sentinel has been glad to number Mr. Smith as one of its good friends for many years and joins his family and relatives in wishing for him many other birthdays to celebrate.

CHIPS OF LIFE

By T. E. Winborn, Jr., Elliott
A Breath of Winter—
He Gave His Life for His Friends—

"Yet then the sun was shining down,
Abiding on the little town,
A mile or so way down the track,
Advancing in the sun.
But somehow as I waited there,
There came a shiver in the air,
The birds are flying south, he says,
The winter has begun."
The last few days old madam nature has been giving us a taste of winter which right at this time feels mighty good. A cool night after so many hot ones is like a refreshing drink after days spent on a scorching desert and a chance to spend a day in comfort after scorching in the heat of a stifling summer is quite a relief. The winter has hardly begun, as the poet puts it, but it reminds us that it is not so far away as we think it will not be so long before we can sit down before a cheery fire and smoke our pipes over a good book and enjoy it. Winter has never been my favorite season because it signifies too much that is dead and I like the spring and summer because then everything is beautiful and green and after all "What is so rare as a day in June", but there are things about the winter that also are beautiful. There is hardly anything more beautiful than a scene of a little home set deep in the green pines with the smoke pouring from a good fire burning on the earth while on the outside the snow is slowly falling and gradually covering the earth in a soft white blanket, nor is there any season of the year in which you can sleep so good nor enjoy hot coffee so much nor eat so heartily as you can in the good old winter time. Still I am always glad to see winter be over and the green buds of spring begin putting out, for then I always feel that kypsy blood in my veins that calls me to get out and wander over yonder until my day is done, and that good clean breath of new plowed ground and new flowering plants that smell so sweet to a nature lover, for spring is the time that nature outdoes herself and marshals all her forces to give us her sweetest, cleanest, prettiest self.

But all the seasons have their place, and autumn is here now and I am glad. For now is the time of the golden-rod and the butterfly, the muscadine and grape, and all the season's ripened grains, and the trees all put on their yellow and gold dresses and the fields are white with cotton and everybody is lazy and happy and contented in the good old south which, after all, can't be beat for lazy contentment and sunny happiness. To lie up in the hills of old Mississippi somewhere and lazily watch the clouds as they drift by while a buzzard drolls his solitary way above you, and a soft autumn breeze keeps the perspiration off your brow, why man what more could you ask of the Maker of the worlds? As for myself, I ask no more. Fame and fortune and success can all pass by if I can but keep my health and enjoy the loveliness of nature. Because then I am content, and happy and many would give millions for happiness, so after all I am better off than many so-called successes and so-called famed persons. Nature is wonderful and I am glad that I can enjoy her to her fullest.

"And greater love hath no man than this that he lay down his life for his friend."

On June 10 Capt. Roald Amundsen set out by plane to look for Capt. Noble, a fellow explorer and adventurer around the Arctic circle. A few days ago the finding of part of his plane made the world give up hope of ever seeing Capt. Amundsen again and thus was lost one of the world's greatest explorers and adventurers.

The first man ever to see the South pole, and the second to fly over the North pole, Amundsen probably has done more to add to the scientific knowledge of the world than any man of the present century. And perhaps he would have wanted no fitter end than that which he met while searching for a former friend and adventurer in a frozen expanse of the north. He laid down his life for a man who was his enemy at the time, and perhaps his sacrifice was greater than had been his friend. At any rate Capt. Roald Amundsen died a wonderful death and he might truly say:
O break for me
No buds nor funeral boughs,
I go with the noblest company
That ever Death did house.

SOMEBODY TOLD ME

(By C. A. Thing)
That the idea the Republicans are trying to spread throughout the south is that to elect Al Smith president will be to turn over this country to the Pope of Rome. We wonder if said Republicans think us southern Democrats so unready on the matter of our country's government that we do not realize the power held by the two houses of congress, out of whose total of 442 members only 40 are Catholics.

That in a preliminary statement on returns of the 1928 fiscal year, the Bureau of Internal Revenue shows that income tax returns failed by about $45,000,000, to reach that of 1927. Is this a sign that prosperity in America is failing, or merely that the people are becoming better mathematicians?

That Mexico, our neighbor on the south, is having quite a time securing a president.

It appears that the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon, president elect, is causing the other "people's choices" to send in their "do not choose" over the radio.

COLLEGE COMMISSIONERS IN SESSION THURSDAY

The special commissioners named by the annual conference of the M. E. Church, South, North Mississippi Conference, to pass upon the sale of $300,000 in bonds for Grenada College, held a short session at the college Thursday morning of this week. The meeting was presided over by Judge J. G. McGowan, of the state supreme court, and president of the board of trustees of the college. It is understood that all the necessary formalities and legal steps have been taken to provide for the sale of the bonds, and that formal O. K. was given by the commissioners. What is planned and what is being done mean a great deal for the college and particularly for Grenada as well as for the young womanhood of North Mississippi.

A. & M. Club Banquet

The Grenada A. & M. Club, which has been recently organized in Grenada, had a get-together banquet last Thursday evening at the Masonic Temple. At this time they were hosts to all young men who have at some time attended A. & M. and who expect to attend this coming session. Each one present introduced himself to the crowd by telling who he was, when he attended A. & M. and what he is now doing. Representatives were present from Tillatoba, Charleston, Duck Hill, Winona, Kilmichael, Coffeerville, Dorsey, Weir and A. & M. College, Miss.

The banquet hall of the Masonic Temple was beautifully decorated in A. & M. colors, maroon and white, and a most delectable three-course supper was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star. Mr. Lawrence Olson was master of ceremonies and made a splendid talk, as did Mr. G. R. Fulton, president of the club, Mr. J. R. Fowell, of Charleston, and Mr. R. S. Wilson, director of extension work at A. & M., who made the main speech of the evening. Mr. S. D. Robinson, a graduate of A. & M. of Kilmichael, who has for the past two years, represented the New York Athletic Club in the Olympic contests, gave a most interesting account of his part in the contests this summer at Amsterdam in Holland in the races. He went from there to enter other contests in England and Germany and won in several.

A most enjoyable music program was rendered by Miss Ruth Farr at the piano and Misses Chloe Lufkin and Hannah Ames, ukeleles. There were fifty guests and members present, and much real enjoyment and inspiration was received. The club expects to have another meeting in the near future and are anxious for all men in and near Grenada, who have attended A. & M. or expect to attend to join the club.

A lovely bottle of bath salts was presented to Virginia Williams as high score prize and Eleanor Lickfield received an attractive pencil box as booby prize. Marjorie Williams received a jar of mints for consolation prize.

Observe Golden Jubilee

Monday afternoon the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church enjoyed a splendid program given by the members of the Epworth Juniors, under the able supervision of Mrs. J. H. Holder, superintendent of this department, assisted by Miss Sallie Billups, superintendent of the primary Epworth Juniors.

Miss Sallie Parnell spoke a few minutes on "Co-operation of Parents with the Teachers in Sunday School". This was followed by the mission program: Miss Rachael Todd represented "Missions", and introduced the following countries, represented by members of the Juniors, each of whom made very fitting remarks pertaining to their country: "China", Miss Elizabeth Patterson; "Korea", Miss Annie Anderson; "Manchuria and Poland", George Darby; "Latin America", Donald Lockett; "Japan", Miss Eleanor Lickfield. Bobby Sharp took up the mite box offering after which Durroh Horn and Fred Murray brought in a lovely white cake with fifty pink candles burning on it, representing the fiftieth anniversary of the Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, this being the Golden Jubilee year.

Mrs. Kate Payne was then asked to cut the cake before which she made some very timely remarks on missions followed by an earnest prayer for this cause. Misses Alice Lee Triplett, Eleanor Lickfield, Bettie Thompson, Ruby Hill, Elizabeth Patterson and Annie Anderson served the cake with the delightful punch to the ladies of the adult society, assisted by Misses Sallie Billups and Elizabeth Holder.

NERVES

Went to Pieces

"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" St., Anderson, S. C.

"I was badly run-down in health. My nerves went to pieces, and I had to go to bed. I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild.

"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted." Try Cardui for your troubles. At all drug stores.

"Now if the vote of a county for or against Bilbo, is a test of the exact sentiment of the people, and should be taken as an instruction to its legislative representatives, as is implied by the Governor, on the question of a school book printing plant in Mississippi, then it will be seen from the above correct tabulation of the counties as to the lower house, that the state printing plant should be defeated by that body 75 votes to 63. Even if the total vote of the floatorial representatives from districts which were divided equally for and against Bilbo, as to counties were added to the 'for Bilbo' column in the recapitulation, and thus cast in favor of the school book printing plant scheme, there would still be a house against the bill.

"Again, in the 24th District, a majority vote in the counties, considered together, voted for Mr. Latham, yet Clay county voted against him. If we consider, or tabulate the districts as to total majorities of the entire district, the Senate vote, according to the Governor's test, would be 29 against the state printing plant to 20 for it. "However it is the opinion of a large number of Mississippians, including at least a goodly portion of the members of both houses of the legislature, that the choice of a representative or senator is not a test of the exact sentiment of the people on any certain measure advocated or opposed by the Governor, or anyone else. Representatives and Senators are not sent to the legislature with instructions as to how they should vote.

"The various counties and districts send men to the legislature in whom they have a confidence that they will vote for the best interest of the entire state, and both houses of that body have a large number of members among the best and ablest business men of the state, and they vote according to the dictates of their conscience, and believe in investigating any measure carefully before they vote for or against it.

"There are three departments of the state government, to-wit: the executive, the legislative and the judicial. Each department has its distinct functions, and it was never intended that either department should dictate to or instruct another department as to its course of action. Governor Bilbo made a campaign promise that he would have introduced and recommend the passage of a bill creating a state printing plant and work for its passage. This, he did, and he has fulfilled that campaign promise. As the head of the executive department this was all that he could do.

"The legislature made investigations pro and con the best they could at the 1928 session as to the practicability of a state printing plant, and with the facts as shown regarding the Kansas state printing plant, they concluded that it would not stand the acid test of good business—that it would not stand up as a business proposition. They discovered that the school book printing plant in Kansas lost $30,000.00 last year, and that Kansas paid $80,000.00 more for her school books in 1927 than did Mississippi, notwithstanding that Mississippi has 125,000 more educable children than has Kansas. For these and other just as sound reasons the legislature voted not to establish a state printing plant in Mississippi.

"The letter below, from a Kansas state official, declares that the state printing plant of Kansas is NOT SELF SUSTAINING. Read the letter:

February 1, 1928.
J. S. Price, Representative,
Jackson, Mississippi.

My dear Mr. Price:
At times long past the State Printing Plant was quite a political machine and there was considerable graft connected with the state printing. Several men in our state became rather wealthy as a result of being appointed state printer by the governor. Finally the state printer was elected by the people and a direct appropriation made for his salary. All fees received by him are turned over to the state. The state printer received a salary of $3,000.00.

Only figures available, in comparison with other costs, are for the year 1925 and the audit of the plant shows that material was furnished the state of Kansas $118,000.00 less than the Franklin cost basis. The plant is not self-sustaining, as the state makes an appropriation to the state printing plant of $175,000.00 to $185,000.00 per year. In turn, this entitles all constitutional officers to have printing done. However, they do charge for the printing done for some of the fee officers. All fees are credited to a printing revolving fund and used for maintaining the plant.

From a personal observation, I would say there is no politics connected with the printing plant, under the present management.

We do not have an audit available, but will copy a portion of same and send it to you within the next day or two.

Assuming you this department is glad to be of service, I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Signed) WILL J. FRENCH,

Auditor of State

Facts.

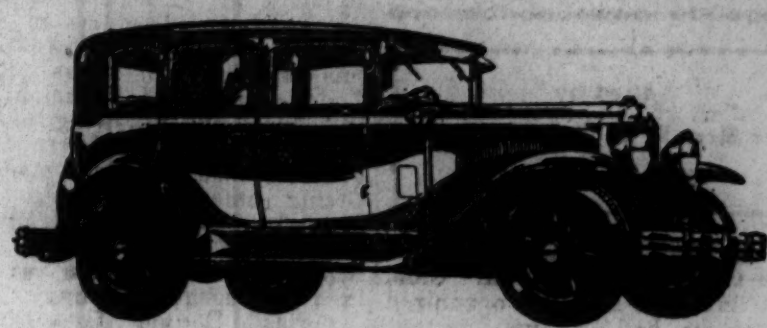

"No better evidence could be secured why the state should not engage in the printing business than the Governor's strong recommendation to the legislature, to sell the Parchman farm, for the reason it is a failure. Here is what he says on this subject:

"Through experience and observation, I have made a careful study of the operation, management and success and failures of our state penitentiary. Much has been said about the great financial success of this institution. A great many people have been led to believe that it is really a money-making institution; but from a strictly business standpoint it is a failure as a revenue producer. If the state penitentiary property were assessed on the same basis as private property owned privately, and five or six per cent upon the investment, the state penitentiary for the last ten years would show a loss of over half a million dollars. I also recommend to the legislature the sale of Parchman farm in small tracts."

"As further evidence that the Parchman farm is not a paying proposition the following from the Governor's address to the legislature carries some logical reasons for the failure of the Parchman farm and why a state should not engage in business in competition with its citizens and tax payers. 'The one great trouble in the administration of government is the lack of proper and strict business methods in dealing with the people's affairs and in the expenditure of the people's tax money. The truth of this statement can be verified by the oft repeated statement that an individual or corporation can do this or that thing better and at less cost than the government does. We sometimes wonder why this is so, nevertheless it is true.'

"The legislature considered all of these facts, and the result was that after due deliberation they voted not to establish a state printing plant in Mississippi at the regular 1928 session, and it is believed that they will not vote to establish it at the extraordinary session, soon to convene."

The new Buick is the new Style

More than handsome... more than luxurious... a wonderful new type of motor car beauty... a thrilling turning point in body design

It will be imitated, of course! The new, the fine and the beautiful always inspire emulation. But so great is the cost of building the magnificent new Fisher bodies for the Silver Anniversary Buick that imitation will be possible only to much costlier cars, and even these will find difficulty in following where Buick leads!

$1,500,000 has been expended in manufacturing the dies alone for the new Buick bodies; and the gracefully curving side panels which form one of their distinguishing characteristics represent the most expensive steel paneling work employed on any automobile in the world!

But it is not in the matchless grace and beauty of exterior design alone that the Silver Anniversary Buick eclipses other cars. In fact, powerful performance too, the world holds no equal for the Silver Anniversary Buick with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher. And the motor-public, buying in such tremendous volume as to force the great Buick factories to work day and night to supply the demand, is elevating it to the prominence of a vogue!

His silence spelled His Guilt, and yet...

HER face was deathly white. Her heart seemed to stop beating as she stated in horrified disbelief at the letter clutched in her trembling hand. A letter to Dave, her husband—from a strange woman—asking for money! Oh, it couldn't be true!

And yet—who was this woman? Why had she written Dave this letter? Was there, after all, some romantic episode in her husband's life that he had kept hidden from her? Surely there had been some terrible mistake. Surely Dave could explain.

But that night, when she quietly handed him the letter, Dave sat with bowed head, in stony silence—his face a mask, to hide—what?

Torn between love and suspicion, between hope and despair, between faith and disillusionment, she searched her breaking heart in a piteous attempt to learn what she had done to deserve this crucifixion. All she had loved and lived for seemed to lay in crumbling ruins at her feet. God knew she loved Dave, no matter what he had done. And yet—

Unseen Costs

The railroads appear at first glance to be undersold by certain other means of transportation. Bus fares are frequently less than railway fares, and freight is often carried at lower rates by truck and barge than by train. But these differences do not prove that railway service really costs more. The explanation may lie in the concealment rather than the absence of part of the costs that are included in railway rates.

Railroads pay their own way, and their rates cover all the costs of railway service. That is not the case with common carriers on highways and inland waterways. They use rights-of-way which are built and maintained at public expense. These costs, while they are not covered in bus, truck and barge rates, are nevertheless paid for. The money comes out of the public treasury, to which everyone contributes, and therefore the saving to the public is more apparent than real.

The subsidy is larger than may be realized. Something like 57 per cent of the Illinois Central System's investment is in its track structure. The cost of maintenance plus the return earned thereon amounted in 1927 to nearly $36,000,000. That was almost exactly 20 per cent of this railroad's freight and passenger revenue.

No wonder the railroads appear at first glance to be undersold! So would any merchant whose competitor set up to do business, rent free, in the county courthouse or the city hall.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

CHICAGO, September 1, 1928.

of the New York legislature he voted ten times against allowing the people to vote on any sort of restriction on the sale of liquor; four times against stopping gambling and prostitution in connection with saloons; three times against repealing the law keeping the saloons open on Sunday; four times in favor of removing zoning restrictions which would keep open saloons from churches and schools and three times in favor of laws sponsored by organized gambling.

When the above report was made public by Mr. White a reporter found Mr. Smith searching the New York legislative record from which Mr. White obtained his information. The reporter asked Mr. Smith if he expected to reply to whether he would decide to White after he was through searching the record.

After many weeks of silence Mr. Smith gave to the public his reply, the first part of which was a severe criticism of the Republican campaign committee for giving publicity to Mr. White's charges. The Republican campaign committee promptly denied all responsibility in the matter.

The second part of Mr. Smith's reply was given to showing that many Republicans voted with him. The third thing in his reply was that he was representing his constituency.

The reader could not keep from noting that Mr. Smith did not deny voting on a single bill as Mr. White said he did.

He had made the record. Mr. White simply gave publicity to it. After reading Mr. Smith's defense or reply I said to myself and to some friends, "Mr. Smith has told the truth in saying that he represented his constituency and that many Republicans voted with him. Therefore the people of the United States should not go to New York to find either a Democratic or Republican president."

They should get just as far away from New York as possible, for presidential timber.

It is hard to believe that any political party would offer to the voting public a man of Mr. Smith's record especially after being entreated not to do so by the organizations of the three leading denominations of the United States, north and south.

But facts are facts. Tammany Hall is the explanation.

It puts the protestant religious and moral forces in the Democratic party in a very embarrassing situation. It is not so embarrassing in the north as in the south.

In the north a voter can vote his convictions and be respected by all parties. In fact all political parties in the north court the vote of those who put their individual conception of principles above party loyalty.

In the south, and especially in Mississippi, it is quite different.

If a Democrat repudiates the nominee to the extent of voting for his Republican opponent he is put, by some, in a class with Benedict Arnold, or Judas Iscariot.

Heretofore if the Democratic nominee was unsatisfactory to the southern voter, the voter remained true to his party and voted for the nominee. In the past the objection to the nominee has not been serious enough to justify a bolt.

But this time the nominee's record is too bad. The limit has been reached.

Thousands of Christian voters cannot and will not stultify their consciences by voting for Al Smith. This is especially true of the ministry. The consciences of the laity, as a rule, are not so greatly aroused.

This is not because the ministry loves righteousness and good government better than the conservative laymen. It is because the ministry has more time to read and study the moral aspect of social and national problems. They are therefore better informed on the moral and religious aspect of nearly all problems.

It is hard to separate a minister's interest in the moral aspect of problems from his interest in religion. These interests often overlap.

This accounts for the more than usual interest the ministry is taking in the present national election.

So far as the record is known every editor except one (and that one is a member of the Methodist Presbyterian and Baptist denominations is outspoken against Al Smith. Four of the six southern Methodist bishops have declared in the press their opposition to him.

The other two bishops have said they did not think the ministry of the Methodist church should use their ministerial office to secure the success or defeat of any particular candidate but they never uttered a word that indicated they expected to vote for Mr. Smith.

The president of the Baptist State Convention of Georgia where the anti-Smith Democrats are organizing, has cautioned his ministerial brethren to be thoughtful in their activities against Mr. Smith and not wound the feelings of many good laymen who wanted to remain loyal to their party. This was thoughtful and wise but he never even intimated that he expected to cast his vote for Smith.

On the other hand many of the most prominent ministers of the three leading denominations including Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. L. R. Scarborough, president, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, four bishops of the Southern Methodist church and scores of others have through the press declared themselves against Smith. All denominational and many secular papers carry articles in almost every issue from some ministry against Smith.

Conferences, conventions and associations of Christian men are publicly declaring themselves against the Democratic nominees. Not one minister or Christian editor in a thousand is saying a word in his behalf. Are these men misguided fanatics? Are they moved by mercenary or political motives? Do they expect any financial or political favors or rewards? Are they enemies of society and good government? Are they enemies of religious liberty and American institutions?

Can you attribute any motives to them that are selfish or unworthy? The ministry and the religious press of the three leading denominations are of one mind in their opposition to Smith.

But while said ministry is united in their opposition to Tammany's product they are not trying to coerce our laymen in any way to stand with them.

They want each layman to have a conscience and live up to it regardless of the party to which his conscience leads him. Are the laymen willing for the minister to have a conscience and live up to it regardless of the party to which his conscience leads him?

The ministry wants the laity to think, act and vote for themselves. Does the laity want the ministry to think, act and vote for themselves?

The ministry is willing for the laity to vote as their best judgment and Christian conscience may dictate.

Will the laity grant the ministry the same privilege?

The ministry is willing for the laity to exercise all the rights of voting that belong to a free American citizen.

Will the laity grant the ministry the freedom of an American citizen or will the laity take the party whip, and the threat of ostracism, and drive us to the polls and force us to vote contrary to our convictions and contrary to our prayers?

As Christians the ministers have a duty. Will our beloved laymen allow us to follow our conscience and discharge our duty in the fear of God, and in loyalty to America and the sacred institutions of this nation in loyalty to a party that is now in control of the most corrupt political organization in the United States?

The ministry is willing for the laity to have all the rights conferred on them by the constitution of the United States and to exercise these rights without prejudice.

Will the laity allow the ministry to exercise similar rights without prejudice?

Let the ministry and laity pray together for heavenly wisdom and divine guidance in this serious and embarrassing situation.

J. W. LEE.

Batesville, Miss., Sept. 1, 1928.

Editorial Note: We gladly give space to the preceding communication from our good friend, Rev. J. W. Lee, whose head is usually level. We have the profoundest respect for Brother Lee and esteem him as a friend, as a man and a minister.

But we must submit that our good brother acts the part of the one who sets up a man of straw just to get the satisfaction of knocking it down.

He bases his opposition mainly to Al Smith because of Tammany Hall. We are wondering if our friend has taken the time to investigate just what Tammany Hall is(?) We are wondering if he can point out one single act of official perfidy that Tammany Hall has been guilty of during the past 50 years(?) We are wondering if he is not accepting somebody else's ideas as to Tammany Hall(?) We are wondering if he would be willing to act on "hearsay evidence" about a matter in his church or an issue of importance in Mississippi(?) We are wondering if he has not allowed the corruption of which Tweed was guilty some 60 years ago to cloud his mind as to the Tammany Hall then and the Tammany of today(?) We are wondering if he is not allowing the act of one individual to place the brand of guilt on the hundreds of thousands who are members of Tammany Hall(?) We are wondering if he has allowed it to slip his memory that Thomas Jefferson was a member of Tammany Hall and that Tammany Hall took its first political step when it worked with and backed Jefferson when he was trying to wrest power from Hamilton and the Federalists(?) We are wondering if our good brother has not allowed it to slip his memory that Tammany Hall and Thomas Jefferson opposed and fought the Sedition law which provided for the imprisonment of those who even criticized the President, his cabinet or congress(?) We are wondering if Brother Lee knows that primarily Tammany Hall is a social and a humanitarian organization, and that among its many worthy and benevolent acts, is when a new family, who is not well fixed in worldly goods, moves to New York, it sees that they are visited and that it gets busy at once to get the head of the home employed and that after a place is secured for him, he is followed up and every reasonable aid and assistance is given him(?) We are wondering how Bro. Lee will explain how an organization could live over 150 years in this glorious land of ours which did not do many worthy and noble things(?)

We are persuaded that our good friend, and many others who think as he does about Smith and the issues of the campaign, are making something almost sacred out of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act, and that they seem to regard those who think the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act should be amended as being almost guilty of sacrilege.

The casual reader would have a right to conclude from what Bro. Lee writes that the whole "Christian forces" of the country were up in arms against Smith, so to speak, even before his nomination. He stated that the several churches in convention assembled asked both parties to declare for the enforcement of the 18th amendment and to nominate a candidate in sympathy with that amendment. Well, both parties declared for the enforcement of the 18th amendment. But right here it might be well to suggest that the delegates to both conventions were as fairly representative of the will and wishes of the people as such bodies could be. They were not all hand picked as most of the delegates to church bodies are. They represented 48 different states. But did not these delegates in the various church bodies think they foresaw Smith's nomination, hence their protest in the form that it was (?)

Bro. Lee says that Tammany Hall "has been grooming her liquor drinking son for at least nine years for the presidency". In general affairs, Bro. Lee makes no statement not warranted by the facts, but we are wondering if he has not overstepped the mark just a little when he speaks of Al Smith as a "liquor drinking" man. Does he really know that to be true? If so, will he assert that Hon. Herbert Hoover, honest, able and upright though he is, does not take a drink at all? Broadly speaking, a "liquor drinking" man is usually regarded as one who frequently becomes intoxicated—does our good Brother know that Al Smith gets drunk? He says that Smith's nomination was brought about by "political strategy". We respectfully submit that if Al Smith did not win the nomination for the presidency after a fair fight of eight years, then nobody ever got any party nomination after a fair fight. Smith just outdistanced all contenders. Three times has his name been presented to the National Democratic convention; twice was he defeated. Does it not appear to the open-minded man that during these eight years, from 1920 to 1928, if anything could have been proved against his private or official character that would have stopped his ascent for the presidential nomination, it would have been made known. Our Republican friends of New York state have burned the woods and sifted the ashes, yet they are unable to point the accusing finger at Smith; they say he is honest, faithful and loyal.

Our Brother refers to William Allen White's charges against Smith as to certain votes cast while he was a member of the New York legislature, and observes that Smith, in his reply, practically admitted all White had charged. Smith never sought to evade responsibility for any of these votes but to our mind he gave a most satisfactory reason in each and every case. There is quite a difference between going to Memphis, for example, to attend a conference and going there to rob a bank. The purpose is what counts. Brother Lee quotes Bishop Dubois. To our way of thinking, Bishop DuBois looks a very great deal of being a practical man. It may be said of him that he is a poetic bishop, and that he is far better pleased when floating in aerial regions and among the stars than he is when treading the soil of Mother Earth. He is a man with a big heart and who delights in roaming among the classics but of fairly judgment about many things.

Our Brother is serious, that's why we regret all the more the position he and many other ministers assume. But there were those in the early days of this country who thought they were carrying out God's purposes who, as churchmen, burned others for witchcraft and who persecuted other religionists who did not agree with them.

Yes, we quite agree that the minister has the same rights as a citizen that a layman has. He fails when he does not act according to the dictates of an enlightened conscience. But we do not think that a minister who is sincerely concerned about his work for the Master ought to use his pulpit to talk about politics either directly or indirectly. We do not think that ministers should so enunciate their views as to allow many to get the impression that they are speaking the will of their churches.

The Methodist Bishops who are ranting about Al Smith are most certainly lessening their influence with the laymen of the Methodist church.

Since Bro. Lee saw fit to quote what certain ministers have said, we are going to hand him Dr. Sam Steel, born near Grenada and now past 80 years of age and one of the greatest scholars of the Methodist church. Dr. Steel stated about the matter that is disturbing Bro. Lee just the other day over his signature the following:

"So Brother Josephus Daniels says old North Carolina will go Democratic. Well, you won't go far wrong following the Tar-healers. They were the first to declare their independence of England and the last to give in at Appomattox to the tyranny of the north, and have become the most prosperous state in the south. I set great store by Daniels' judgment. My personal acquaintance with him is slight and began under peculiar circumstances. The North Carolina conference met in Raleigh. I was there and preached one evening in the main church. There was a great crowd and we had a pentecost. At the close of the sermon, amid the singing and the shouting, the brethren crowded about the pulpit to shake hands with the preacher. Out in the crowd a man who could not get to the pulpit called out: 'Take dinner with me tomorrow!' I replied, 'I don't know who you are, but I like the way you shout. I'll do it!' It was Hon. Josephus Daniels, and you may be sure we had a sure enough dinner. And Carter Glass says support the ticket—the Lord bless his dear old soul! I bank on him. Now what am I to do? Daniels and Glass and John Sharp Williams are as good men as I am. Daniels and Glass as good prohibitionists, and all of them know a thousand times more about politics than I do, and they are going to support the Democratic ticket. But then there are half a dozen Methodist bishops, and old Knickerbocker, and a lot of others, who are ready to send me to the devil if I vote for the Democratic nominee, and Watkins telling me I am a coward if I don't vote at all! The only thing I am sure about is that I will never vote the Republican ticket."

LOST Time from Work

Mr. Albert Garland, of Somerset, Ky., recently said: "I used to work in the mines, but lost quite a bit of time on account of sick spells I had. I would get to having a bad taste in my mouth, and a very dull, tired feeling and ache."

"My mother told me to try Black-Draught, which I did, and after a few doses I felt much better. Now I take it as soon as I feel the least bad, and I don't get down. I certainly can say that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken."

"I never got without Black-Draught. If I go on a visit, I take a package along in my suitcase. My health is better now than it has been in years." Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality. Price 25c. Try it.

CARD OF THANKS

It would be impossible for me to fully express the deep feeling of appreciation I have for the many kindly things done for me during the ten days I was confined to my bed from injuries received when attacked by a maddened bull. The assistance given during my confinement, the many offers of assistance and the scores of inquiries served to encourage me and to lessen the tediousness that usually results when one is unable to be up and about. I hope that I will be able to show my gratitude in some way to all who were so solicitous and I want them to know that I am deeply and sincerely grateful. Respectfully,

FIRESTONE TIRE DEALERS ANNOUNCE TRADE-IN SALE

A local event of no little importance is the unique Tire Trade-In Sale inaugurated this week at Grenada Motor Co. well-known local Firestone dealers.

Under this new plan, your old tires are worth money for every mile of unused service remaining in them. In other words, this progressive dealer is making a generous allowance this week on the unused mileage in your tires. It is conceded that this event is being held at just the right time because the forward-looking motorists are already thinking whether the tires he has run all this hot, blistering summer, and months before, are the best fitted for safety and comfort during the fall and winter driving near at hand. He figures he is money ahead if, in exchange for the unused mileage in his present tires and the difference in cash, he can get a complete new set and have all his needs taken care of just when the prices of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and Couriers are at their lowest.

The great opportunities offered in this trade-in sale are additional reasons for the growing popularity of the "Buy at Home" movement, as naturally the trade-in plan is only feasible where tire service is available. More and more, the public is coming to see that inasmuch as this city's welfare is identical with that of its merchants, buying one's requirements at home is the logical thing to do.

It is announced that the well-known Firestone unlimited guarantee is in effect during this sale. All Firestone and Courier tires are guaranteed for life against any and all defects in material or workmanship.
